Find out how the EU Ecolabel works

With so many products making green claims, it can be difficult to know which labels you can trust.

The EU Ecolabel, established by the European Commission and managed by authorities in every EU Member State plus Iceland, Norway and Liechtenstein, is a long-standing and reliable environmental label.

Right at the core of the EU Ecolabel is the life-cycle approach. All of the products and services that display the EU Ecolabel have been designed to ensure their main environmental impacts are reduced throughout the product's life-cycle.

This includes every stage of the product's life, from the extraction of raw materials, to production, packaging and transport, right through to how you use and dispose of it.

And to be awarded the EU Ecolabel, products and services have to comply with environmental criteria that are set by panels of stakeholders and assessed by independent experts.

The label ensures that the best decisions for the environment and your health are made at every point of the product's life, while delivering high-performance products and value for money.

So when you see the EU Ecolabel logo, it means less waste, less pollution and products that are better for your health.
